Dr. Santilli states: "I am extremely pleased to announce that, based on current expenditures, Thunder Energies Corporation will show a profit for the construction of the equipment producing a directional neutron flux (patent pending) that has been purchased by a European group for a number of applications, particularly for the scanning of suitcases and containers to detect the possible smuggling of Uranium, Plutonium or other materials used in nuclear weapons. The sale was originally announced by the previous release <https://finance.yahoo.com/news/thunder-energies-corporation-announces-sale-142000927.html>. The validity of our cutting-edge technology for the first and only known synthesis of neutrons from a hydrogen gas was confirmed by an international team of scientists from three continents in the scientific paper <http://santilli-foundation.org/docs/Confirm-neutron-Final.pdf>.
