Sandi Jerome of CRS Consulting Services Inc. Opens Oregon Market with First XSELLERATOR™ Software Sale.

Calgary, Alberta, January 10, 2005 – Quorum Information Technologies Inc. (Quorum) announced today that CRS Consulting Services Inc. (CRS) has completed its first XSELLERATOR sale in Oregon State. Quorum recently signed a Vendor Agreement with CRS which licenses their company to sell XSELLERATOR software in the U.S. market. In order to meet demand in the U.S., Quorum’s strategic plan is to complete key partnering agreements with well established, U.S. based companies to execute XSELLERATOR sales and implementation. The agreement with CRS was the first of a number of planned new alliances which will enable Quorum to penetrate the U.S. market quickly. CRS is owned by Sandi Jerome, a highly respected Dealership Management System (DMS) expert and Editor of Digital Dealer magazine, the leading IT resource magazine for the U.S. automotive dealership market. XSELLERATOR is the only completely integrated, Windows-based DMS software on the market. It automates and streamlines dealerships’ sales, service, parts and accounting departments.

“I am thrilled to have Sandi join our team,” said Maury Marks, President and CEO of Quorum. “She is one of the most highly respected authorities in DMS software in the U.S., and is the first of a group of companies we have targeted to partner with in our U.S. market entry strategy. Having Sandi work with us in this capacity is a strong endorsement of our XSELLERATOR product, and gives the Company a high level of credibility with dealerships in the U.S.- the proof of which is this sale being completed so quickly.”

Ms. Jerome has over 20 years experience in the automobile business. As a CPA with a degree in accounting, Ms. Jerome consults and lectures on automotive business management, internal controls, and computer utilization for National Automobile Dealers Association (NADA) Management Education, CPA firms, AICPA, automotive 20 groups and manufacturers, and three of the major Dealer Service Provider computer companies. Sandi has been a highly rated speaker at NADA in the past few years.

“When I saw Quorum’s technology in action, I knew I was looking at the future of DMS software. XSELLERATOR is years ahead of any of the other systems on the market today, and it will stay ahead because it’s a completely different approach – Quorum didn’t copy the standard systems that have been around forever, they have completely integrated everything a dealer needs. I am looking forward to introducing XSELLERATOR to dealerships. When they see what this software can do, they will be as excited as I am about how it can help their dealerships become more efficient and profitable.”
