CEOCFO: Mr. Thomas, what is the vision behind TPT Global Tech?

Mr. Thomas: The vision where we are moving the company is into the digital media space. We are acquiring companies that actually help us build out the global infrastructure for us to be able to deliver live mobile television broadcasts over our telecommunication infrastructure and eventually get into the whole production of content to deliver to our in customers all around the world.

CEOCFO: What is involved in what you are trying to do?

Mr. Thomas: The first step is that we have done a series of acquisitions to build out of each one of those components for building out our mobile delivery platform worldwide. There is a merger and acquisition component and an organic growth component that we are about ready to kick off with our strategic partnerships with partners like AT&T that we have in place. We look to expand here in the United States and then we are also in the process of working with international companies as well.

CEOCFO: What are some of the challenges in what you would like to offer? What is the industry now and what do you want to add to the mix differently?

Mr. Thomas: I think with our mobile platform and social media platform that we are about ready to launch, it is going to be one of the first super apps every deployed domestically and internationally where individuals can get all the media content, do all their social media all in one eco system. I think the challenge is that there is an explosion of apps and digital media happening right now in some of the biggest companies, so we are competing with some of the biggest companies, but our management team and our experience, I believe that we have an excellent opportunity for not only organic growth but through our MNA activity as well to grow the company in the present and future.

CEOCFO: What has it taken so long for this type of platform?

Mr. Thomas: It is very difficult to be able to build the type of platform that our technology enables us to do. That has been one of the real limitations for some of the biggest companies to be able to deliver and build thus type of platform.

CEOCFO: What are your next steps?

Mr. Thomas: The next step is once we have all the components aggregated on to our single platform, we will launch our mobile television platform and turn into the digital media space. We will continue to look for acquisition that will help us set up vertical and horizontal distribution channels domestically and internationally. We are also about ready to uplift to either the OTCQB and hopefully one day we will be either NASDAQ or New York Stock Exchange.
